SPRING CARE OF STOCK.

What to Do With Horses, Calves, Pigs and Sheep.

A great many farmers neglect giving their farm stock the proper care and attention that they should have in the springtime, writes W. F. P. in the American Cultivator. Before the farm teams are put to heavy work in the spring, examine every collar that is in use and see that it is properly fitted. The collar that is too tight or too loose will gall the horse's shoulders and possibly gall the horse's respiration. Nineteenth of the galls and sore necks are due to the ill-fitting collar which could be avoided if the horses were properly cared for during the first two or three weeks of spring work. It doesn't pay to neglect the stock in the spring. The old hair that is loose while the animals are shedding in the springtime should be brushed off to prevent the animals swallowing it when licking themselves. By currying or brushing, irritation is not only allayed, but the falling hair is removed beyond the reach of the tongue of the animal. It would be better still to have the animals clipped. It may seem to be a great deal of time and labor wasted to curry and brush farm stock, but there is no doubt of its advantage when properly and judiciously done. If you have a few nice calves do not be tempted to turn them outside on the damp, cold ground at the first approach of spring. The very best calves are the ones that do not see the outside of the barn until the grass is hardened and the spring weather is thoroughly settled. What little green wash grass they may eat will do them but little good. To turn the livestock out to grass at the first approach of spring belongs to the penny-wise, pound-foolish class of management, too often carried on in our farming. It is far better to buy a few dollars' worth of extra grain foods than to let the animals stand exposed to the cold winds of early spring weather. Sound business policy and humanity dictate this.

In turning the colts out to grass, allow them the run of the pastures but a short time, until they gradually become used to the change. Continue the grain feeding until the grass becomes sufficiently nourishing to maintain them in good flesh condition. Never neglect the pigs. Arrange the farrowing pen so that the little pigs may go out and lie in the sunshine during the warm spring days, for there is nothing that agrees with little pigs better than sunshine. Sheep may be turned out earlier than other farm stock, for they seem to thrive better when allowed to keep down rank growth of grass in their pastures, but they should be fed some kind of dry supplementary foods during the early spring and kept yarded at night, so that they can go in their sheds if the weather is wet and cold. It will pay to keep some of the best hay and silage to feed during the spring. Some farmers feed out their best feed first and trust to luck in getting their stock through the spring months on what they have left for them.

A sale of house dresses at Perry's on Saturday.

Robert Smith of Hartford arrived in the city to-day to make a visit with friends.

Mrs. James Manson, who has been spending the past few days at Bethel, returned to the city last night.

"The Watch Dog of the Deep," a two-reel I. M. P., featuring Leah Baird and William Shay, also other good pictures at the Bijou.

George Allen of Bennington arrived in the city yesterday to make a few days' visit as the guest of relatives on Beckley street.

Miss Marjorie Engle, who has been the guest of friends in the city for the past week, returned to-day to her home at Monroe, N. Y.

The Old Ladies will hold a dance on Friday night, April 24, in K. of C. hall, commencing at 8:30 o'clock. Admission, gentlemen 25c; ladies, 15c. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Harold Mather, who has been spending the past few months at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bradford of South Main street, left last night for her home at Dubuque, Iowa.

William B. Marston of North Main street returned to-day from Rochester, N. Y., where he has been visiting for the past few days. He resumed his duties as chief clerk at the Montpelier and Wells River freight house.

Dr. Lawrence Hemenway, who has been visiting with friends in the city for the past few days, returned last night to his home at Boston. He visited in Barre while returning from a few weeks' visit at Montreal.

Julio Galli of Redstone, N. H., who has been spending the past few weeks in the city with relatives, left last night for Boston, where he will visit for the coming week. He leaves the middle of next week for a few months' visit at his former home at Genoa, Italy.

Major L. M. Simonson of Hartford, Conn., a division adjutant for the Salvation Army in New England, will arrive in the city Friday for a few days' stay at the barracks in Barre and Montpelier. Major Simonson will speak in both cities during his stay in Vermont.

The executive committee of the Newman Dramatic club at a recent meeting decided to defer the date of their next presentation from the first week in May until some date in the month of June. The members of the dramatic club will present "The Price," a three-act drama.

Miss Margaret Pennell of Boston, who has been the guest of Miss Mary Cronan, ticket agent at the Central Vermont station, left yesterday for her home in Swanton. Her sister, Miss Mabel Pennell, also of Swanton, who has been Miss Cronan's guest, has gone to Montpelier for a short stay before returning home.

Robert Crowell, a former resident of Barre, but who is now located in Swampscott, Mass., arrived in the city yesterday in a Jefferys touring car, which he is demonstrating for H. P. Cutler. Mr. Crowell was at one time in the employ of the Drown Motor Co. He is now engaged as a traveling demonstrator for the Jefferys Co.

In the first of a series of candle pin bowling games for the championship of the granite plant clubs, the representatives of the Dewey Column Cutting works suffered defeat at the hands of the Harrison Granite company at the Merlo Bros. alleys. The Harrison concern won two out of three games. The best bowling of the evening was furnished by Jake Fraser with a single game of 117 and three string total of 226. James Brown of the losers also bowled well.

Among those who registered at the Buzzle hotel yesterday were: E. J. Tol- lowing, E. V. Bent, Boston; Clifford Tierney, Alburg; Emera Varney, Alburg; J. C. Mendel, Syracuse, N. Y.; J. G. Underwood, Hartland; D. S. Elliott, Portland, Me.; J. H. Riley, Berkshire; Thomas McBride, Sherbrooke, P. Q.; E. C. Paige, Sherbrooke, P. Q.; A. E. Middleton, Burlington; A. E. Stevens, Lawrence, Mass.; George Tupper, Northfield; Earle Cutting, Northfield; E. D. McIntyre, Boston.

The concert given under the auspices of the Woman's association of the Congregational church last night, pleased a large number of people. The artists who took part are so well known that the mere mention of their names assured the success of the concert. The program consisted of both vocal and instrumental selections. Prof. Hathaway, of Montpelier, and Miss Gale of this city united in "Serenade" on piano and organ, and Mr. Hathaway, Mrs. Bruce and Miss Gale rendered a trio on piano, violin and organ, which was most pleasing. Mrs. Pipe, who has pleased Barre audiences in the past, delighted her hearers, while Miss McHardy rendered several Scotch selections, which were heartily enjoyed, and Mrs. Albertson pleased the audience, as she always does, with her readings.

Around twenty members of the Athena club left this forenoon at 11:25 o'clock for Waterbury on a sight-seeing tour. The club members planned to reach Waterbury in the noon hour and repair at once to the Waterbury inn, where dinner was served. Afterwards the party proposed to inspect the village and perhaps call on members of the Woman's club in Waterbury. According to the arrangements they were to return to the city in the late afternoon. Among those who made up the party were the following: Mrs. H. M. Houston, Mrs. H. William Scott, Mrs. Richard A. Hoar, Mrs. Dell V. Stone, Mrs. Powers, Mrs. William Campbell, Mrs. George E. Bond, Mrs. Alice J. Little, Mrs. Clinton L. Burbee, Mrs. Edwin Keast, Mrs. George L. Morris, Mrs. Derwin S. Waterman and Mrs. George L. Bates. The trip to Waterbury is one of several novel outings the club plans for the spring and summer months.

TALK OF THE TOWN

John W. Vaughan of Maple Grove returned this morning at 8 o'clock from a few days' business visit in Boston.

Miss Sadie Johnson of Merchant street went yesterday to Northfield, where she will visit relatives for a few days.

S. J. Smith of Williamstown was a visitor in the city yesterday while on his way to New York, where he will make a 10 days' business visit.

Charles Cheney, who has been employed in the car shops of the Central Vermont railroad at St. Albans, arrived in the city yesterday to pass a month's vacation.

Charles Kovalsky of Forsythe place, who is taking a short vacation from his duties at the McLeod blacksmith shop on Seminary street, went yesterday to Burlington to visit relatives.

The remains of Mrs. Belle Phillips, wife of a Montpelier jeweler, whose death occurred Monday, were brought to Barre Wednesday afternoon for interment in Elmwood cemetery. Rev. Albert H. Spence, jr., of Montpelier was the officiating clergyman at the funeral.

A light wagon attached to a runaway delivery horse side-swiped a number of vehicles that were hitched along the way from North Seminary to Berlin streets yesterday afternoon. The horse started from Summer street and cut into the main thoroughfare at Cottage street. The damage was slight and the horse was taken captive near the Allen Lumber company's establishment.

One of the most enjoyable of the season's dancing parties was held in Howland hall last evening under the auspices of the Barre Woman's club. Around 30 couples were present when the grand march was started soon after 8 o'clock. This number was augmented when the dancing got well under way. The dance order included numbers that attracted dancers of all ages and all schools. At intermission punch and wafers were served by Misses Drew and Kathryn Martin. A committee consisting of Mrs. F. J. Martin, Mrs. N. S. Love and Mrs. W. A. Drew, had charge of the party.

Gasperello Bros., who recently purchased the old Beckley street school building, are remodeling the structure into a four-tenement house which they hope to have ready for occupancy by the middle of May. First and second story verandas have been built on two sides of the structure and the interior has been entirely refinished. The purchasers of the school expect to get four ample-sized tenements out of the structure. Since the departure of the snow, the approach to the new school building at the north end has been graded and a number of improvements on the terraced front have been made. A large area of land which flanks the brick schoolhouse on the east has been seeded down and by early summer an attractive lawn will be the result.

The Pansy class of the First Baptist church gathered at the home of Mrs. F. F. Cave last evening and tendered a miscellaneous shower to Miss Pearl Rollins in honor of her approaching marriage. The evening was pleasantly spent, the climax being a mock marriage ceremony, when the wedding march was played and a bridal couple, with best man, bridesmaid and flower girl, carried through their parts. Refreshments were then served and, after singing "Auld Lang Syne," the young people departed, wishing Miss Rollins much happiness and prosperity in her married life.

A regular meeting of Loyal Green Mountain lodge will be held in their hall this evening at 7 o'clock. Business of importance to come before the meeting. Per order N. G.

Style, Fit, Quality, Price

What's the determining factor in your clothes buying?

Style is important; it is or should be a true reflection of your character.

Fit is vital; if perfect, it insures a proper personal appearance.

Quality should be considered from but one level—100 per cent.; if it's less, style and fit will avail nothing.

Price rests largely with the size of your income; yet no one in justice to their best interests should pay too much for their clothes.

In our estimation, Rosman and Belloff Clothes (Union Made) and Kupperheimer Clothes are supreme in style and fit. Their quality throughout is uniformly superior and under our better clothes-selling methods you are assured of greater value than it is possible for you to secure elsewhere.

$8.50, $10.00, $12.00, $13.50, $15.00, $16.50, $18.00

Not much more than you should pay, but as little as such good clothes can be sold for.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Joel Jansen of 24 Church street entered the City hospital last evening for treatment.

Having in mind the informal conference of the city council apropos the regulation of automobile driving, the police are bent on doing their part to abate the speed nuisance, now that the season is well started. There is a disposition to give drivers a single chance to mend their ways, since the season is at its beginning, but the attitude of leniency will soon be changed. Already auto drivers are using Washington street as a speed boulevard, since the bad condition of the outlying roads makes it imperative that cars do not venture too far beyond the city limits. Yesterday the officers observed two well known local drivers who made an afternoon's business of putting cars through their paces up and down Washington street. According to the police there was some reckless disregard of the rights of others that characterized driving on that street last year. The thing is to be nipped in the bud, they promise.

Great interest is being evinced by the public in the miniature piece of statuary on exhibition in the display windows of the Moore & Owens store. It is a dove perched upon a branch of marquer-itis. The carving was executed by John Ariola, a cousin of the John Ariola of Rignano, Italy, being wrought out of the famous Carrara white marble. The pedestal upon which the carving stands is of black and streaked Bismarck stock. The statue stands but four inches in height and what tends to make the modeling of value is the fact that it was performed solely by hand. The executor devoted about six months' labor to the accomplishment of the work, and during the past year the little piece of carving has been entered into many art exhibits in Italy, in all of them receiving approval from some of the highest Italian art critics. The Barre man received the work as a gift from his cousin last week. It was brought to Barre by a Bismarck man returning from a few months' visit at his former home.
